Sprint Cup will return next June

NASCAR stars to race at Speedway, June 29

The superstars of stockcar racing will return to Gallatin County next year. NASCAR announced last week the Kentucky Speedway would host a Sprint Cup race, The Quaker State 400, on Saturday, June 29, 2013. It will be the third year of Sprint Cup racing at the track located in Sparta.

“As we look forward to 2013, with the coming of the redesigned Sprint Cup Series cars, it should be very good for racing and its fans,” Kentucky Speedway general manager Mark Simendinger said. “I think it’s going to generate a lot of interest and I think now that the issues of parking and traffic have been put to rest, the uniqueness of our racing weekend will take hold.”

The first year the track hosted a Sprint Cup race (2011) was marred by a massive traffic jam that left thousands of frustrated race fans with tickets unable to get to the track. Millions of dollars were spent to widen roads and add parking around the track and there were no traffic problems last June. There was also a much smaller crowd last year, however, which many blamed on fans’ displeasure with the access problems the year before.

Attendance, however, has been down at many NASCAR events across the country this year, including last month’s Nationwide and Truck races at the Kentucky Speedway.

Next year, the 36-race Sprint Cup Series season begins with the Daytona 500 on Feb. 24, and ends Nov. 17, at the Homestead-Miami Speedway in Florida.

The Kentucky Speedway Sprint Cup race is the 17th on the schedule and will be televised live on TNT.

This year, the June Sprint Cup race capped off three nights of NASCAR racing at the Speedway with a Camping World Truck Series race on Thursday and a Nationwide Series race on Friday. It’s assumed there will be a similar schedule next year but that hasn’t been confirmed.

The track is already offering season tickets and camping packages for 2013, though its complete schedule has not been announced.

“We’ve already had a really good response for next year,” said Simendinger. “I’m encouraged about that. I think our strategies are working out well so far. We still have a ways to go, but so far, so good.”

The Speedway’s season packages for next year assume the track will have

Senior Night Fun

Friday night was festive at Gallatin County High School as senior football players and cheerleaders were honored before the Carroll County game.

Senior cheerleaders are: Kennedy Lafferty, Kelsey Moore, Bethany Parker, Kayla Parker, Brandi Miller and Stephanie Gilbert.

The fun and games ended early Friday night as the Wildcats lost to the rival Panthers in a lopsided game, 57 to 27. For more on the game see page 5. Photos by Kelley Warnick

Warsaw Fall Festival is Saturday

The fifth annual Fall Pumpkin Festival will catapult into Warsaw’s Riverfront Park, Saturday, October 6.

This exciting fall festival has become well known in our area for its hayrides, games, contests, and booths. It’s also famous for the “Pumpkin Catapult”, manned by extension agent David Hull. The catapult sends pumpkins flying through the air and then they splash to their demise in the Ohio River. Fall festivals don’t get any better than that.

One of the festival’s new events this year will be the 5K Run/Walk. It will start at 9 a.m. at the park gazebo and then wind around the streets of Warsaw. The $10 registration fee guarantees a T-shirt and medal. Call Carolyn Marksberry at 859/567-5900 to sign up.

A Pumpkin Parade will line up at the high school at 12:30 p.m. for judging, and then roll through town starting at 2 p.m. Local businesses, clubs, and organizations are invited to join in.

Other fun fall events will include the Miss Pumpkinfest Pageant, a Scarecrow Contest, a Chili Cook-Off Contest, Antique Tractor Display, and several other events. The festival is free which makes it the perfect way to spend Saturday without hurting the wallet.

The Gallatin County Pumpkin Festival is held by the Cooperative Extension Service and the City of Warsaw. Call 567-5481 or 567-5900 for more information.

Courthouse to close for part of October

October will bring closings to offices in the Gallatin County Courthouse.

First, because Kentucky is changing the way its driver’s licenses are issued, Gallatin County Circuit Court Clerk Pam McIntyre’s office will not issue licenses on Monday, Oct. 8. New software and cameras needed for the licenses will be installed that day.

Other operations of the Circuit Clerk’s office will not be affected on Oct. 8.

Additionally, the Gallatin County Courthouse and all courthouses across the state will be closed, Monday, Oct. 15, as the Kentucky Judicial Branch shuts down for its third “Furlough Day” of the year.

The closure will affect only non-elected personnel who will be off work without pay as part of the Judicial Branch’s budget reduction plan. Circuit and District Court and their offices will be closed as will the Supreme Court, the Court of Appeals, the Administrative Office of the Courts and all court

This and That

Replacement Columnist

I know you expected to see Kelley’s column at the bottom of this page but he has been locked out of the office in a dispute with management over the lack of Chips Ahoy cookies in the employee lunchroom. We hope this dispute ends soon but until it does, I’ve been asked to take his place.

First, let me confess, I don’t know as much about writing as Kelley. Why should I? I’m a Golden Retriever not a newspaperman. I work for dog biscuits, and I guess that’s why the bosses picked me to step in.

Even though I’ve never written a column before, I’ve watched Kelley do his many times. To tell the truth, I figure it can’t be too hard. All he does is sit in front of the computer, drinks some coffee, bangs on the keys for a while, laughs out loud and then goes to lunch when it’s all over.

I can handle that kind of work so I guess that means I’m the guy (oops I mean dog) for the job.

First, I want to tell you about something that really gets my tail in a knot: Squirrels. I hate their beady little eyes and fuzzy ears. They think they’re so clever to steal seeds out of the birdfeeder and then hide around the back of the tree so you think they’ve disappeared. Sometimes, when I’m relaxing on the porch, they run right across the yard and dare me to chase them. GRRRRR!

Unfortunately, they always get back to the trees and laugh at me before I can catch them. That won’t always be the case. One of these days, I’m going to get a squirrel by the tail and then we’ll see who’s laughing.

And there’s something else that makes my ears twitch. That’s the cat Kelley makes me live with. He’s the most lazy, conceited, selfish creature I’ve ever seen. All he does is sleep, eat and rip up the furniture. If I acted like that, I’d be outside in the doghouse.

Instead, Kelley treats that mangey feline like he’s royalty. He gets fancy cans of tuna, shrimp, and turkey while all I get is a bowl of dried up old chow that looks and tastes like cardboard.

Not only that, but when nature calls, the stupid cat does his business in a pan in the laundry room. If I did that, I’d get my nose rubbed in it and would be sleeping out in the rain.

It’s not easy being a dog. I only get to ride in the truck on Sundays. I can’t remember the last time I went swimming in the river. And if I take a nap on the couch, I get treated like I chewed up Kelley’s favorite pair of slippers.

It feels so good to get all this off my chest, I want to go howl at the moon.

I don’t know how long management will have Kelley locked out but until he returns, I’ll do my best to keep this column interesting. Of course, I won’t be able to get it together if one of those darn squirrels shows up again. Like I told you, I can’t do a thing when I have squirrels on the brain.

The Irish take on Columbus Day, Oct. 8

Editor's Note: A good friend of the News in Indiana sent us this Irish salute to Columbus Day.

Dear Editor:

They say October 12 is Columbus Day. Not in my home town. It was Captain Paddy Gillespie Day.

Paddy was captain of the fourth ship in the Columbus fleet, the "Irish Lullaby". Paddy was repeatedly warned by Columbus's signal man to keep back from the edge of the world.

What Irishman would believe a word spoken by an Italian?

Over the edge he went and we Irish believe Captain Paddy Gillespie discovered China and Australia on the other side of the flat earth. That's what we will be celebrating on October 8.

Story Two

My father had one Italian man work with all his Irish workforce for the Boston Consolidated Gas Company.

I am sure he was selected to work by my father because he had a son who was a priest.

He asked my dad if he could take a day off on Columbus Day.

My dad asked him, "Who in the hell is Columbus?"

The Italian man replied, "He's a big Muckity Muck like your Saint Patrick."

He got the day off.

The War on Fat has begun

Dear Editor:

Another war broke out in the United States, last week. The War on Fat. You haven't heard of it? You will.

Over 300 retired Armed Forces senior leaders have started an awareness campaign based on how it affects our ability to defend ourselves.

The primary age demographic for Armed Forces recruitment is between 18 and 24. It has been this way for hundreds of years. Yet, in the United States we have now gotten to the point of absurdity for these young people.

When you factor in lousy food choices made on a daily basis, 40 percent are too obese to join.

When you add those who are eliminated from joining for drug use, police records, failure to graduate from high school, medical ailments of all sorts, and finally those who cannot score high enough on the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery, we're in a crisis.

When you add all this up, right off the top, 70 percent of those we need most are not eligible.

What's being done? This retired-military group is urging the government to move ahead in releasing updated standards for the foods schools are required to serve by the Healthy Hunger-Free Kids Act.

The updating has begun, but the U.S. Food and Drug Administration has not yet tackled "competitive food", or those foods with little nutritional value sold in vending machines and stores.

What can be done now? Get ahead of the curve. Study the choices offered in your schools. Engage the school board in providing better choices if they're not there.

If one aspect of life is about providing choices for future employment, joining the Armed Forces is going to be a small option, for very few people. And if they're not eligible to protect us, who is?

Kentucky Commentary

Ben Chandler should stand up to the coal industry

All over the nation this fall, coal interests are playing politics at levels perhaps never seen before, fearing that four more years of the Obama administration will change and shrink their industry forever.

Those battles are being fought outside the coal fields in places like Kentucky's bluegrass, scene of the state's biggest race this fall.

U.S. Rep. Ben Chandler of Versailles, a grandson of twice-Gov. and once-Sen. A.B. "Happy" Chandler, had a very close call in the anti-Obama wave of 2010, keeping his 6th District seat by only 647 votes out of 239,000 cast in a race with Republican Andy Barr of Lexington. Barr is running again, but on Lexington TV the last two weeks, Chandler's main foe has been a coal guy named Heath Lovell.

Barr ran a commercial in which Lovell, a former coal miner who is now a Western Kentucky coal executive, blamed Chandler and Obama for the loss of 2,000 Kentucky coal jobs. Chandler fired back with an ad calling Barr's spot "a big lie" and identified Lovell as a "national Republican donor," complete with a photo of him with Mitt Romney.

Barr replied with an ad in which Lovell said Chandler is lying about him and blamed Chandler and Obama for the job losses.

In the middle of the Chandler-Lovell battle, Congress recessed for the campaign season. As it headed home, Chandler apparently felt coal's heat. He joined 18 other House Democrats in voting for a Republican bill dubbed "Stop the War on Coal Act," which would ban regulation of greenhouse gases, keep the Interior Department from issuing any new rules that threaten coal production or jobs through 2013, and reverse the Environmental Protection Agency's efforts to control water pollution from mountaintop mining (already blocked in court) and air pollution from mercury, which comes mainly from burning coal.

The vote was surprising since Chandler announced last week that his most recent poll showed him still leading Barr by double digits and Barr didn't dispute it.

When I asked him about the vote, Chandler said it wasn't the first time he had sided with coal interests and he does so "if I think it's important for the coal industry" and economic development and jobs in his district. He could have also said the bill is going nowhere, but that would have been too cynical for public consumption.

Only the eastern-most counties of the 6th District have any coal to mine but Ravenna and Irvine's railroad heritage is strongly tied to coal and Lexington is home to many coal interests, vendors and consultants.

The district is also home to many who despise coal for its human and environmental damage but the industry has practiced smarter public relations recently and may look to some like an embattled underdog.

The congressman angered the industry with his vote for "cap and trade" which reflected his deep environmental sentiments, but he deserves no blame for the loss of coal jobs, mainly a function of utilities switching to gas.

Nevertheless, Obama is anti-coal and Chandler endorsed him in the 2008 primary, so the congressman's coal issues are intertwined with the President—who is likely to be a larger factor in the 6th District than coal. That's why Republicans have made coal such an issue.

The polls suggest the broader electorate in this presidential year is working in Chandler's favor, as many expected, but he represents one of the country's few swing districts, and any number of circumstances beyond his control could change the nature of the race.

Chandler has reason to be cautious, because a defeat could easily end his political career. But those of us who like a little more courage in our politicians prefer the Ben Chandler who stood up to the coal industry when it counted.

Panthers beat Cats in district battle

Mark Gray
Sports Reporter

The Gallatin County Wildcat football team suffered its first district loss last Friday. The team fell to the visiting Carroll County Panthers.

Poor field position and turnovers left the Cats in an early 21-0 hole.

With 2:43 left in the first quarter, Austin Chapman hit Nick Brown from 11 yards out to cut the deficit to 21-6.

Gallatin drew still closer in the second quarter when Chapman scored on a one-yard keeper.

Nevertheless, the Panthers scored the final 10 points of the quarter to lead 31-12 at halftime.

Another Chapman one-yard run cut the lead to 31-19 midway through the third, but Carroll scored the next 26 points to push the lead to 57-19. A late Wildcat touchdown made the final score 57-27.

Offensive Statistics

Chapman completed 17 of 33 passes for 192 yards and a touchdown.

Nate McCoy caught eight balls for 104 yards and Brady Lawrence added four for 75 yards.

Nick Brown led the ground attack with 17 carries for 74 yards. Jonathan Yarnell added 3 for 59.

Defensive Statistics

Chris Brown had 13 big tackles to lead the way for the Cats. Brennan Bishop had 11 and Brown added 10.

Gallatin will take a 5-2 record into Friday night's district game at Walton-Verona.

Honoring the seniors

Mark Gray
Sports Reporter

The Gallatin County Lady Wildcat volleyball team finished the regular season with home losses last week to three rivals Trimble County, Grant County and Williamstown.

Coach Brian Gognat's team will now focus on next week's 31st District Tournament at Carroll Co. High to end the season.

The Lady Cats will take on Eminence at 6 p.m. on Tuesday. A win would pit the girls against the top-seeded Carroll County Panthers at 6 p.m., next Wednesday.

That day's other semi-final game will be Owen County vs. Henry County at 7:30 p.m.

The championship game will be next Thursday at 6 p.m.

Gallatin County's standout junior quarterback Austin Chapman threw a pass in Friday's game against Carroll County. He completed 17 of 33 passes for 192 yards and one touchdown in the 57 to 27 loss. Photo by Kelley Warnick

Runners finish third in Switzerland County meet

Mark Gray

The Wildcats had a full varsity boys cross country team for the first time in three years, last Thursday. The boys finished third in a quad meet at Switzerland County.

Trent Wainscott finished 17th with a time of 22:58 on the 5K course to lead Gallatin.

He was followed by Chris Wilson (19, 23:48), Tanner Knuckles (23, 24:21), Oleg Poyan (25, 24:55), and Zach Brewer (27, 25:37).

Team scores were Switzerland County 21, Shane Academy 55, Gallatin County 72, and Carroll County 76.

Girls

In the girls varsity meet, Georgia Urso finished 10th with a time of 28:21 on the 5K (3.1 mile) course.

Junior High

In the 1.8 mile junior high race, the Lady Cats had the top three finishers.

Kylie Griffey was the winner with a time of 17:06. Charity Brewer was second at 17:58 and Brean Rahe was third at 18:03.

"Prior to this season, these kids have never participated in competitive running," said Coach J.P. Epifanio. "They are a close-knit group and very supportive of one another. I couldn't be happier with their efforts."

Our friends and neighbors have been busy the last week or so, and, of course, we have the continuing odyssey of our Alaskan adventures:

• On Saturday, the cruise ship docked back in Seattle and the Bradleys and Meyungs just hated to leave that wonderful ship. They had relished the cruise activities, the high energy entertainment shows, the good food, and definitely the room service! They had enjoyed the places they visited in Alaska because the towns had many of the original buildings and retained their unique allure. Picking up the truck and camper, they met up with Dave and April's cousin, Gretchen, for a quick tour of Seattle. They went up the Space Needle (41 seconds to arrive at the top) for a bird's eye view of Seattle and the harbor. They also went to the Public Market/Pike's Pier. This fish market is famous for the fishmongers throwing large fish from an icy bin about 10 feet to the register when people purchase the fish! One can purchase anything from A-Z at the three levels of the market place. Seattle is a city on a hillside, and is an interesting place to visit, but the foursome are glad they live in Warsaw!

• Alice and Ron Johnson attended the wedding and reception of Amanda Thomas and Doug Catlett at the South Fork Christian Church last Saturday. Alice reports that the wedding was beautiful, with approximately 150 people in attendance.

• Seems the word is out that Carol Estes is retired. She enjoyed more out of town visitors this week, including Loretta and Dave Parsley of Louisville and Jim and Nancy Chesser of Lexington. Of course, Jewel's on Main was on the agenda for lunch with the Chessers, who loved the food and can't wait to come back. However, the Pars-leys came on Sunday when Jewel's was closed, which meant Carol had to cook!

• Mary Jane and Bob Day attended the Daniel Boone program, Friday night, at the library and said it was just great. Saturday afternoon, Mary Jane and Barb Finfrock enjoyed the play, "Sherlock's First Adventure" presented by the 4-H Drama Club at the high school auditorium. Mary Jane pronounced it most entertaining and said the performers were quite talented.

• Mary Rae Mattox had a grand time visiting with her three sons, Jerry, John, and Donald, and their families last week. She left last Thursday for Cattlesburg and arrived at John and Jerry's home that afternoon. She was thrilled to see her four-month-old great-grandson for the first time, as well as her granddaughter, Ashley Smith, who is the baby's mother and the daughter of John. Mary Rae was thrilled to see her grandson, Christopher, who flew in from Texas on Friday and whom she had not seen for about twelve years, and her other grandson, Chris, who is in the Air Force and stationed in Oklahoma. After all the hugging, the family went to dinner at Giovanni's Pizza and made plans to visit her son, Donald, and his family in South Webster, Ohio, the following day. The family gathered at Donald's house around noon on Saturday to enjoy a great meal of smoked pork, cabbage, baked beans, chips, and homemade salsa, all prepared by Donald, whom Mary Rae pronounced a great cook. After their wonderful meal, the family enjoyed playing games such as corn hole, pool, and even some karaoke. It was particularly poignant, since it's the first time all three sons had been together for eight years, marred only by the fact that Mary Rae's daughter, Donna, could not be there. Mary Rae said she had a wonderful time with her family, and they are already planning next year's reunion. She returned home on Sunday afternoon, glad to be home and relishing her happy memories.

• Finally caught up with Betty and Boyd Lionberger on Monday, to find Betty planting flowers that she wanted to get in before the ground freezes. They enjoyed a visit from their son, Mark West, and his dog, Peaches, on Friday. Saturday evening, Betty and Boyd attended a political rally at the River Park for Wanda Hammons, and enjoyed listening to the music of the Young Country Band while having hot dogs. Betty said there were door prizes as well, but if she won anything nobody told her! On Sunday, the Lionbergers attended the ice cream social and picnic with fellow members of the Methodist Church. (Homemade ice cream!) Other family members attending were Julie, Hannah, and Matthew Hamilton, with Hannah's friend, Michaela and Matthew's friend, Julie; Kristina and Rob Turner with baby Aleigha; and Jacalyn Williamson.

• Delores and Terry Hopperton celebrated the birthdays of Kera and Kaleb Frontz, Friday evening, at the home of Mishelle and Steve Frontz. They enjoyed a great dinner, along with ice cream and cake. Kaleb is now 14, and Kera is 21, sharing the same birth date seven years apart. Other family members attending were Brad, Jenny, Lila, Carter, Madelyn, and Molly Hopperton. HAPPY BIRTHDAY, KERA AND KALEB!

• Diane Young has had an exciting couple of weeks. She has enjoyed the company of her cousin, Margaret, for an evening, and attended the LaComedia dinner theater with her friend, Lori; daughter-in-law, Michelle; and cousins, Margie and May, to see "Smoke on the Mountain." Her great neighbors, Gerry and Holli, took Diane and husband, Ron, to Jewel's on Main for lunch, which Diane said was delicious, as always. The Youngs have had quite a few out-of-town guests, including Joyce from the Corbin/London area; cousins, James, Stacey, Jay, and Jessica, who came from Nashville to attend the annual Brockman reunion. Sons, Jeff and Ron; daughter-in-law, Michele; and the grandchildren enjoyed a night around the fire with Diane and Ron. The young couple pitched tents to camp in the yard with the children, but Diane declined that adventure, stating she enjoyed her own bed too much. As always, Diane has also spent a lot of time with her mother and brother.

• Patsy Brown has taken a job as hostess at the Belterra Buffet Restaurant. She said she quite enjoys her new job and just hopes her feet and legs hold up so she can continue.

• I enjoyed a visit from my son, Larry, and my grandson, Shawn, on Saturday afternoon. Larry took me to Walmart for grocery shopping while Shawn remained at home to babysit Annie. Larry carried in all my groceries, put them away for me, and then fixed my corner shelf in the bathroom which had nearly fallen into the wash basin. We had a grand time and it was wonderful to see them.

• LIFE WITH ANNIE: Nearly everyone I see these days asks about Annie. She is doing great, and is a constant source of amusement. She has recently discovered that there are steps leading upstairs, and climbed three of them before realizing that she was afraid to come back down and waited patiently to be rescued. Now that the weather is cooler I have turned off the kitchen ceiling fan and Annie refused to come into the kitchen for hours due to that thing sitting up there by the ceiling, looking like a big old black spider ready to pounce.

Ask Doctor Dirt...

By David Hull

we brush our teeth.

Fertilizing your lawn now feeds and thickens the root system of the grass. This will give you a denser lawn next spring. If the grass is denser, there will be less room for weeds to grow. So go out in the pumpkin patch with Linus, and ask the Great Pumpkin to bring you fertilizer instead of candy; it'll be good for your lawn and better for your teeth.

Fall Pumpkin Festival This Saturday

The fifth annual Fall Pumpkin Festival is coming up this Saturday, October 6 at Riverfront Park in Warsaw. You will want to be involved in several activities before and during Pumpkinfest. The 4-H Scavenger Hunt, and registration for several activities takes place before the Festival so read on for more details.

Pumpkinfest will begin with a 5K Fun Run through Warsaw. Contact Carolyn Marksberry at the City Office at 859-567-5900 as you must be registered before the run.

At 2:00 find your spot along the route for a Pumpkinfest parade through Warsaw. The festival will continue at Riverfront park with contests, food, art, and craft items, the famous pumpkin catapult, hayrides, the Bubble Truck returns, games for a fee, antique tractors, Miss Pumpkinfest pageants and MUCH MORE! Various Pumpkin Festival registration forms can be found online at www.uky.ag/gallatin, click on "News" in the left column.

We would like individuals and organizations to be involved in the festivities by participating in the Pumpkinfest Parade. Parade floats will be lined up and judged in the High School parking lot from 12:30 to 1:30 PM with the parade beginning at 2:00 PM. Call Rosie Allen at the Extension Office at 859-567-5481 to register your float.

Various booths will also be a part of the festival. Visit the website for booth set up information or call Carolyn Marksberry at 567-5900. Free flu shots and Tdap vaccinations will be available at the Health Department booth for Gallatin, Carroll, and Owen county residents during Pumpkinfest from 3:00-7:00 PM. Tdap is necessary to prevent the spread of whooping cough from adults to children. Come to Pumpkinfest between 3-7 PM to learn more.

A pumpkin decorating booth will be at the small shelter from 3:00-5:00 during the Festival with prizes for youth. Come and decorate your pumpkin at the festival. You can bring carved pumpkins to the festival to be displayed and judged also.

Registration for the Pumpkin Dessert Contest and for the Chili Contest will be from 4:00-5:00 PM. Bring at least 5 servings of your homemade pumpkin dessert on a disposable dish. Bring your heated crock pot with a least 5 servings of your homemade Chili to the Gazebo for the Chili Contest. For the Dessert Contest see Mayme Walters at Beringer's or the website for complete listing of rules.

Scarecrows must be completed and displayed with a photograph and completed entry form brought to the Bank of Ky in Warsaw. Photographs will be displayed for the public to view on October 6 and ballots will be available until 5:00 PM for People's Choice awards. Top three People's Choice scarecrows in each age division will be awarded a prize sponsored by the Bank of KY.

Three Miss Pumpkinfest Pageants will be held for Gallatin County residents ages 10-12; 13-15; and 16-20 at the park under the big tent. Miss Pre-Teen pageant at 5 PM, Miss Teen at 6:30 PM and Miss Pumpkinfest at 8 PM. Contact Yolanda Gould at 859-904-0201 or visit www.uky.ag/gallatin for information on how to register.

The 4-H Scavenger Hunt involves 50 4-H clovers located in businesses throughout Warsaw. Locate as many 4-H clovers that you can and turn in your sheet at the Festival 4-H booth by 5:00 PM. Details are on the form on the website. First, second and third place prizes will be award to the persons that turn in a completed form with all 50 clovers located. This contest is sponsored by First Farmers Bank.

And what would Pumpkinfest be without Dr. Dirt's famous pumpkin catapult? This redesigned "pumpkin pitcher" will prove to be crazier than ever. Don't forget to bring your lawn chairs and blankets for the Bubble Truck from 3:00-4:30 PM and Bonfire at 9 PM.

Our Fall Pumpkinfest is about celebrating our community here in Gallatin County. Of course, volunteers and prizes from local businesses are needed for these events. If you are interested in volunteering, donating a prize, donating pumpkins for the catapult, participating in the parade or entering one of the contests or have any questions about Fall Pumpkin Festival, please contact the Extension Office at 859-567-5481. Various Pumpkin Festival registration forms can be found online at www.uky.ag/gallatin, click on "News" in the left column.

Kentucky State Parks roll out Halloween events

It's time to get out the pumpkins and ghoulish decorations at Kentucky State Parks, as they prepare for one of the most popular times of the year - Halloween.

Many of the park system's campgrounds will be having special activities for campers, including decorations, costumes, hayrides and games for the kids. And other resort parks, recreation parks and historic sites will also have special events during October - a great time to be outside with family and friends.

Parents of young children should check in advance - some parks have age recommendations for their events.

Many state resort parks have inexpensive rates for lodge rooms and cottages during the fall. Resort parks also have excellent restaurants with your favorite meals. State parks have trails, playgrounds and plenty of wildlife viewing areas and fall color that make for excellent family outings. For more information about state park events or to make lodging or camping reservations, visit www.parks.ky.gov or call your favorite park.

Here is the list of Kentucky State Park Halloween events:

Barren River Lake State Resort Park 16th Annual Halloween Camping Weekend

Switzerland County YMCA provides fun-filled days for students during Fall Break

The Y Fall day camp provides children an opportunity to spend the day with their peers, meet new people and experience new adventures. Campers enjoy a broad range of age-appropriate activities. The Switzerland County Y offers fall day camp that coincides with the school break, Oct. 8th thru Oct. 12th. Activities include swimming, team-building, arts, and crafts, nature science, sports (with a focus on character development) with local field trips and community service projects to: Clifty Falls hiking trails, movie theatre, local river beautification project and the Switzerland County Animal Shelter. Camp begins at 7:30 a.m. and ends 5:30 p.m.

Health benefits of camp promote active habits for children that get overlooked when they spend the afternoons at home playing video games or watching TV. Y camps help children build healthy habits while promoting fun.

The Y offers the following helpful tips to help parents choose the best camping experience for their child:

• Know your budget:

Camp does not have to be expensive. Y camps offer financial assistance based on need.

- Know your wants: Families should consider what they want for their child from the camp experience. Some camps are highly structured or interest focused. Others offer kids options and flexibility in setting their schedule.

- Know the camp: Review camp brochures or Web sites and seek references. Call and ask the camp director questions about camp activities and policies.

- Know your child: Don't forget to include your child in the decision-making process. If possible visit the campsite with your child and take a tour together before making a final decision.

As a charitable organization, the Y is an association of people who come together with the vision of building strong kids, strong families, strong communities. The Y is open to people of all abilities, ages, backgrounds, cultures, faiths, and incomes. Visit www.switzymca.org or call 812-427-9622.

Gallatin County Schools Resolution Asking Congress to Rescind Across the Board Budget Cuts

WHEREAS, a world class public education is essential for the future success of our nation and today's school children; and

WHEREAS, the Budget Control Act of 2011 includes a provision to impose $1.2 trillion in across the board budget cuts to almost all federal programs including education that would become effective January 2, 2013; and

WHEREAS, these across the board budget cuts, also known as sequestration, would impact education by a reduction in funds of 7.8 percent or more and could result in larger class sizes, fewer course offerings, possible four day school weeks, loss of extracurricular activities, and teacher and staff lay-offs; and

WHEREAS, sequestration would impact almost every public school system in the nation and the millions of students educated through programs such as Title I grants for disadvantaged students, the Individuals With Disabilities Education Act (IDEA), English Language Acquisition, Career and Technical Education, 21st Century Community Learning Centers, and more; and

WHEREAS, Gallatin County Schools, as well as other public schools, would be impacted nationwide by an estimated $2.7 billion loss from just three programs alone - Title I grants, IDEA special education state grants and Head Start - that serve a combined 30.7 million children; and

WHEREAS, federal funding for K-12 programs was already reduced by more than $835 million in Fiscal Year 2011, and state and local funding for education continues to be impacted by budget cuts and lower local property tax revenues; and

WHEREAS, state and local governments have very limited capacity to absorb further budget cuts from sequestration, as Gallatin County School district has already implemented cuts commensurate to state and local budget conditions;

NOW THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, that the Gallatin County School district urges Congress and the Administration to amend the Budget Control Act to mitigate the drastic cuts to education that would affect our students and communities, and to protect education as an investment critical to economic stability and American competitiveness.

Irwin Yablans, creator of 'Halloween' films discusses

Why we love horror movies

Why do we pay to watch scary movies?

Irwin Yablans, creator of the Halloween films that forever changed the genre, says the answer's easy.

"When done right, a horror movie evokes an involuntary response involving fear, excitement, repulsion and fascination," says Yablans, author of the new memoir, The Man Who Created Halloween.

In it, he details his rise as a successful independent producer, sales chief for Paramount Pictures and head of Orion Pictures.

His masked creepster Michael Myers, who debuted in 1978, spawned a wave of iconic horror characters, and a new way to do business in Hollywood.

"Too many commentators focus on the cost of making a film, and how much the lead actors were paid," he says. "But, from a producer's point of view, the most important money question is: Is our movie worth the $10 ticket price?"

Yablans shares his views on why we love to be horrified:

- Universal appeal: Horror will always tantalize the masses because it touches a visceral emotional response within everyone – unlike other genres. Not everyone finds the same things funny, for example, but just about everyone finds the same things scary, he says.

"Horror connects on that most fundamental level. A truly frightening boogiemán, a likeable protagonist and sympathetic victims puts audiences right in the shoes of the characters being chased," he says.

- The difference between horror and horrible, and fan loyalty: As a boy, Yablans grew up in a poor tenement in Williamsburg, Brooklyn, listening to radio shows that relied on "theater of the mind" narratives, which captured the imaginations of listeners.

He used this approach with the Halloween film series. "Too many of today's horror films rely on blood and guts to coax gross-out responses from audiences," Yablans says. "Halloween was successful, in large part, because it played more on the mind, where fear lives." Horror fans tend to give new movies the benefit of the doubt, and if the first one is good, then they'll return for parts 2 and 3, he says.

- Cost-effective: Most of the greatest horror film franchises began with modest budgets, including Night of the Living Dead, $114,000; the first Halloween, $320,000; The Blair Witch Project, $35,000. Each of those movies were wildly successful, grossing millions. The Friday the 13th series, inspired from the success of Halloween, has earned a worldwide total of $465 million. "There have been many failures, but the genre is one of the best bets in the film industry," he says.

- Great marketing: Yablans' legendary horror series appropriated a children's holiday, Halloween, and made it exciting for adults. "Everyone wants to be young again – at least sometimes," he says.

Other successful horror franchises – Nightmare on Elm Street, Friday the 13th and Scary Movie copied Yablans' branded approach: recognizable titles, costumes or make-up and theme music.

About Irwin Yablans

Irwin Yablans is the executive producer and creator of the "Halloween" film series, which forever changed the horror genre and the old studio system.

His new autobiography, The Man Who Created Halloween, details a true rags-to-riches tale of a boy who grew up in a roach-invested tenement in Brooklyn to become the man who transformed society's view of a children's holiday. Yablans' influence in Hollywood includes setting the standard for a new breed of independent producers and filmmakers, the discovery of famed director John Carpenter and advocating for studio support of one of the most acclaimed films in history, Francis Ford Coppola's Apocalypse Now.
